"Whaddayamean," Border Educa- tional Advantages for Soldiers

Rio Grande Turns out To Be Simply a Dirty Creek and International Bridge is Wooden.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 15.—In enumerating the beneficial results of the mobilization of national guardsmen upon the border someone has dwelt upon the educational advantages.

"Everyone of the hundred—odd thousand militiamen," they say "will go back to his home with a clearer knowledge of a new section of our country and an understanding of the Mexican situation."

So as soon as the tents are up and he can get "town leave" the newly arrived guardsmen hurries down to learn all he can about the Mexican and the "situation," see the famous International bridge and catch a glimpse of the turbulent country at the other end of it. It is a thrilling experience—if the "guardie" has imagination. The soldiers of the patrol furnish the educational features.

At first sight the bridge is a bit disappointing. It is a rickety wooden affair. And the "silly Rio Grande" mentioned frequently in the popular songs is a distinct shock. It is neither silvery nor grand. At this season of the year it is a mere thread of dirty water meandering over the sandy river bed. Usually a dozen naked Mexican children are attempting to get wet or drier.

"Huh," sneers a Pittsburgh guardsman, "it isn't as dirty as my river. With two blotters I could blot up the dingy river."

It is significant after the first sight of the stream, the newcomers insist upon calling it "their river."

After gazing silently at the clusters of drab adobe huts sprawling up the sides of the barren mountain back of the town the newcomer has a lot of questions to ask. This is where the education begins.

"Say pard, are there many bandits over there?"

The nonchalant militiaman on patrol regards the seeker-after-knowledge with scant interest. He is a veteran of the border service. These "rooks" annoy him. He has been on the border for three months.

"Ain't it kinda dangerous doin' guard duty right across from 'em," pursues the undaunted seeker-after-knowledge.

"Wal, Yes," yawns the veteran. "Yes, we do have a lotta trouble with them bandits. But one ges used to it in time."

The seeker-after-knowledge throws an apprehensive glance at the other side. It looks quiet enough. Scores of shapeless women are hovering over little fires cooking on the shady bank. Vendors of vegetables and cigars are waiting their wares plaintively. Children in every degree of nakedness are playing in the sand and in the sun.

But at the other end of the bridge are several sinister dark-faced figures fondling Mausers. They are leaning against the railings, each with a two-bushel had pulled over their eyes. They are the Carranzistas customs guard, when it is time for them to get off duty someone will awaken them. "Do them fellows ever get to snipin'?" "Oh, yes," the veteran casts a sharp look at the opposite bank. "We watch 'em pretty close. They's usually not much doin' until after dark." The newcomer is visibly impressed. He envies the hardened veteran his careless demeanor or in the face of danger. "What are them red horse blankets they wear around their shoulders?" The "rooks" thirst for information is insatiable. "Them. Oh, they call 'em tortillas. Of course the rook doesn't know now that a tortilla is a pan-cake. But he'll learn border ways fast enough. Within a month he will be touring some other "rook" and satisfying his thirst for knowledge. It's a great life, this border service, any way you take it—and there are the educational advantages.

COUNT APPONYI THINKS WILSON WILLENDWAR

Says Peace That Ends This War
Must Be a Peace That Will
Guarantee World Peace

BELLIGERENTS WANT PEACE

Berlin, Nov. 15.—(By United Press)—"Peace that closes this war must be a peace which guarantees future world peace—if such peace can be secured and I don't see why not. Then I think this horrible blood shed will not have been in vain for future generations," Count Apponyi, prominent Hungarian leader said in an interview today with a United Press correspondent. He declared "that there has been an unmistakable trend toward peace in Germany and England and expressed the belief that it must soon come. The two chief belligerents are getting on closer ground," he said, "as it is shown by comparison with early and late speeches one of von Bethmann-Hollweg and Earl Grey. President Wilson with campaign worries off of his mind and his election assured will seize the opportunity when the moment arises to help obtain peace in Europe," the Count continued.

"We know Wilson and hope his election is assured. America is psychologically the leader of the neutral nations and will be the big factor in time of peace." The count said that the peace "would not come in a week or even a month or two but would come soon. 'This peace,' he said, must be international and based on an agreement between nations."

Interesting Display At Kurtz's Store

Brass Standards of Weights and
Measures Used in 1801

Hundreds of shoppers are being attracted to the interesting display of weights and measures in the window of the Kurtz Stationery store. The measures are of solid brass and bear the date of 1801 and were made by order of the Governor of Pennsylvania in that year. They are now over one hundred years old and of course being made of brass are just as good as the day they were made. These standards were delivered to county commissioners in 1834 by direction of an act of assembly dated April 15, 1834. In order to test weights and measures it was necessary to make tests at the court house and the implements in this exhibit were used to make required corrections.

Under present laws the Inspector of Weights and Measures makes inspection by personal visit. Thomas J. Lowell, of Penfield, being the inspector. The exhibit was loaned by courtesy of the county commissioners.

BERLIN RECEIVES REPORT FROM SUB. CAPTAIN

British Steamer Rowanmore Believed to Have Been Sunk
After Refusing to Stop

ONLY CAPTAIN SAVED LIFE

Berlin, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—The admiralty today at the foreign office received the report of the German commander of the submarine which sank the British steamer Rowanmore on October 26, 145 miles off Cape Clear. The foreign office has issued an official explanation of the matter to Ambassador Drew of the American embassy at Berlin. Contrary to reports from America and England there is no excitement here. Many inquiries come from Americans regarding the torpedoing of merchant ships by submarines because every one here is convinced that U-boat commanders are not violating their instructions to sink merchantmen when caught. The Rowanmore according to belief was forced to stop after first refusing to heed the submarine's orders. It is understood here that the report of the submarine captain declares that the crew deserted the captain of the Rowanmore after the sinking because of his action and that he was finally forced to row alone to shore. That is the reason he was saved.

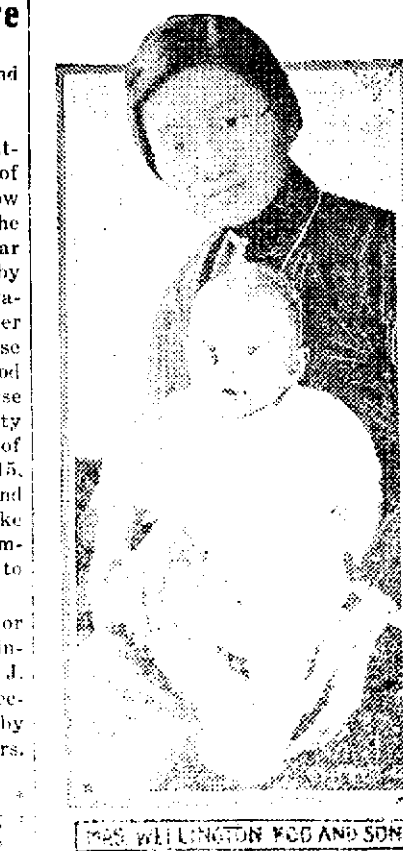

It is believed that the submarine fired on the crew after the men had taken to the smaller boats. Investigation of other submarine activities which has resulted in inquiries by the United States department of state has been continued but the reports of the submarine commanders concerned have not been forthcoming.

MARRIAGE OF MRS. HENRY M. FLAGLER

New York, Nov. 15.—The wedding of Mrs. Mary Lily Flagler, widow of Henry M. Flagler, one of the founders of the Standard Oil Company, and builder of the Florida East Coast railway, and former Judge Robert Worth Bingham, of Louisville, took place this afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones, close friends of the bride. Except for the limited number of people present, the surroundings of the wedding were on a splendid scale. The specious house was superbly decorated. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Morgan Ward, rector of Poinciana chapel, at Palm Beach, Fla., erected by Mr. Flagler.

The engagement and marriage of Mrs. Flagler and Judge Bingham resulted from the renewal of a friendship of more than twenty years' standing at a house party at Asheville, N. C., last year. They first became acquainted many years ago when they met at the commencement exercises of the University of Virginia. The bride of today is one of the wealthiest women in America. When Mr. Flagler died at Palm Beach, Fla., three years ago, he left an estate valued at $70,000,000, the bulk of which was inherited by his widow.

She is about fifty years old and was born and reared in the south. Her maiden name was Miss Mary Lily Kenan and her home was in Kenansville near Wilmington, N. C. Her father, William R. Kenan, was in the confederate service and an uncle was for eight years attorney general of North Carolina.

Judge Bingham, who has won the immensely wealthy widow as his bride is forty-five years old and also is a native of North Carolina. He received his early education at Asheville and later attended the University of North Carolina and the University of Virginia. For three years he was professor of Greek and Latin at Bingham school, Asheville, resigning in 1895 to take up the practice of law. He served as county attorney of Jefferson county, Kentucky from 1904 to 1907, when he became mayor of Louisville.

GARY SYSTEM OF EDUCATION DIS- CUSSED AT W. C.

Great Interest Manifested in Article Read by Mrs. F. B.
Reed on Gary Institution

FANCY WORK SALES $665

The Gary School system, play grounds and school gardens were the subjects presented at Woman's club yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank B. Reed read a most interesting article on the school system in Gary, Ind., where the school is made a genuine child's community, giving him in rotation, study, which can be applied in daily living, practical vocational training and recreation. The Gary school system, built up by an educator, William Wirt, has become an institution of national significance, and it is prophesied, may sometime revolutionize the schools all over the land.

Miss Clara Leavy told the club that we have playgrounds because it is beginning to be understood that play is not a luxury, but a necessity. Often the play instinct becomes twisted and perverted. Nine-tenths of the whole question of juvenile lawbreaking, is a question of play. Therefore a play leader becomes indispensable and has unlimited opportunities of forming habits in children, of honesty, fair play, generosity, determination and loyalty. Miss Leavy, then told of some methods used in organizing play grounds.

Plans for establishing children's gardens were brought before the club, and both of the above topics were discussed with much interest.

Mrs. H. Clark Thayer, president of the club, then gave her report as delegate to the state federation of Penna. Club Women, at their annual meeting held in Philadelphia. She gave an inspiring account of the deliberations of over six hundred delegates sent out by the 53,000 club women of our state.

In response to a request for aid from the War Children's Relief Fund the "Little Stocking" with its pathetic appeal will be found hanging in the club room, ready for offerings, small or large. A special offering for this purpose will be asked for at the next club meeting.

Miss Dill, chairman of the fancy work exchange, then gave her report. The sales of fancy work total $665.00 for the year ending November 27th. A great deal of new work is coming into the exchange at the present time, and it is hoped that the holiday season will bring as large a variety of beautiful handiwork as last year.

Afternoon tea and sandwiches will be served by the exchange at the club rooms for the benefit of Christmas shoppers, commencing the middle of December.

After some discussion as to ways and means of increasing the number of books and general efficiency of the public library, the meeting adjourned.

CURWENSVILLE NEWS

Milk men have sent out notices to their customers that the price of that product has been elevated from 5 to 9 cents per quart.

Mrs. Ed Kennedy and child, of DuBois, are visiting that lady's parents Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Shaffer, on East George street.

Phineas Bloom and John Haven of Grampian came down last evening to take part in the democratic parade. They brought a drum corps from that town with them.

If Curwensville has any intention of having a night school started in that direction. Does any one know how many pupils would attend if there was one?

J. Roll Bloom came in from Bolivar yesterday where he had just completed the construction of a bridge. He will leave today for a point below Wilmington, Del., where he will be engaged in the same line of work.

Mrs. Josephine Brown had a warrant issued Monday evening for a man charging him with assault and battery committed on a son. The case was settled by the defendant paying the doctor bill and costs of prosecution.

The illustrated lecture in the M. E. church last evening was not as well attended as it should have been. The Democratic parade drew the attention of many who had contemplated attending. But the attendance was sufficiently large to encourage the lecturer, Richard Rothe, to deliver his discourse in a manner belying his subject, "Rock Gardening."

Some time ago the Pennsylvania railroad company brought several hundred colored men from Florida, and distributed them along their line between this place and Tyrone for truck work. The past week has depleted this number by more than half, the warm climate gentlemen saying they were freezing to death up here in the mountains, and slipping away two or three at a time, heading for the sunny south. Some of them had never seen a frost or a flake of snow.

That big Democratic ratification parade that has been the talk of the town for several days past, came off on schedule time last evening, and created fun and enjoyment, not only for those who took an active part, but for the lookers-on. The line started from the Park hotel corner having three brass bands and a drum corps to enliven the time and help the marchers keep step. There were described banners galore, mules horsed and "Buddy Spencer" wheeling John Kelly in a cart to pay an election bet. Charlie was game and the Demo's had nothing on him, as he performed the act with a dignity and decorum belying a good Republican. The crowd was a good humored one and nothing was said or done that any one could take exceptions to as being of a too personal character. Clearfield was not as well represented as it might have been, but the Democrats of that town sent up a good band as a contribution and that helped a whole lot to liven things up. Along the parade route one could tell a Democratic house by looking at the number of candles and lights burning in the windows, although there were several Republicans who went down in defeat, but showed their patriotism by hanging out flags and burning lights in the windows. This demonstration, recalls to the mind of the writer, similar gatherings of a much rougher character of both political parties in years gone by, when the opposite party from the one which was jollying, threw bricks, stones and other missiles that came handy, in an effort to break up the parade. The demonstration usually terminating in a free-for-all fight, in which some of the participants carried remembrances for many a day. Last evening's demonstration portrayed the fact that those brutish times had passed into oblivion, and that the younger generation take as a joke what the fathers took as an insult; which leads up to the theory that in this late day politics is conducted along the lines of science instead of by brute force. If Mr. Wilson is truly elected President of these United States, all good citizens, whether Republicans or Democrats, will support his administration loyally and as becoming American citizens. Democrats of Curwensville, we congratulate you on your successful ratification jollification of last evening.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre To Hair.

That Beautiful, even shade of dark glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PLANTING BULBS OUTDOORS.

The first frost which will put an end to the development of many of the flowers in the home garden should be the signal, say specialists of the department, for the planting of bulbs of the tulip, hyacinth, and narcissus which are to furnish the first touch of color for the outdoor garden in the spring.

The bulbs may be put in even before the appearance of the first frost, but better not until after.

Tulips and hyacinths should be placed in beds in light, rich soil that has been dug to a depth of at least ten inches. They should be set 4 inches deep and 5 inches apart. If the narcissus and its variants—jonquils and daffodils—are to be planted in beds, the soil should be prepared similarly and the bulbs should be set 10 inches apart and 5 inches deep.

A pleasing variation from planting the narcissus type of early spring-blooming bulbs formally in beds is to plant them in scattered groups on the open lawn or in the edge of shrubbery. A good plan in arranging for the location of the flowers on the lawn is to broadcast the bulbs and plant them where they fall. A small hole 5 or 6 inches deep should be made and the bulb inserted, pointed end up. The hole should then be pressed full of soil. Often the narcissus, planted in this way, will become naturalized on the lawn and will continue to grow here indefinitely, coming up year after year, if the tops are left uncut until near the 1st of June.

HOMAGE TO BELGIAN KING

Paris, Nov. 15.—In Paris and throughout the greater part of France the people today enthusiastically celebrated the fete day of King Albert of the Belgians, whose name appears to be destined to go down to posterity as that one of the most heroic figures in the present war. Since the day he was driven from his throne by the invading Germans the exiled King has remained close to the battle front, sharing in all the hardships of the Belgian soldiers.

Today, in honor of the fete day of the King, all of the public edifices and many private buildings in Paris, displayed the Belgian colors. The telegraph wires to the war zone carried many congratulatory messages to King Albert, among the senders being President Poincare, King George, Czar Nicholas, the King of Italy and the exiled rulers of Serbia and Montenegro. The day was further observed by the Parisians with liberal contributions to the Belgian relief fund.

Miss Mary Agnew of Danville, N. Y. is visiting at the home of Miss Ella Shaw on Market street.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissue clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys to neutralize the acids in urine so it is not longer a source of irritation thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

ATTENTION OF WORKMEN

Harrisburg, Pa. Nov. 15.—An educational campaign to carry a message of safety and accident prevention directly to employees in Pennsylvania's industrial establishments has been instituted by Commissioner John Price Jackson, of the department of labor and industry, by the distribution of Accident Prevention Posters to be placed on bulletin boards and in other conspicuous places around industrial plants. The posters are 8 1-2 by 11 inches in dimensions and in attractive typographical display, each poster carries, to industrial workers, in few words, a vital thought for carefulness.

The first poster of the series gives a record of accident reports for the first six months of this year showing that 1,000 persons were killed, 125,000 persons injured and over $1,000,000 lost in wages by injuries. A display line sets forth that fifty per cent. of this enormous loss could have been prevented. In heavy black lines the work is admonished as a final thought: "Do your work in a safe way. Is it not worth while?"

The second poster gives a photograph of a worker who lost an arm while adjusting moving machinery. Beneath the photograph appears this warning: "Do not oil, repair or adjust moving machinery. Sooner or later you are bound to suffer from such carelessness. Why take chances when injury is sure to result?"

At the extreme corners of each poster are replicas of a keystone containing a white cross within a black disk with the words "Safety Always" appearing at the border of the black circle.

Commissioner Jackson has arranged for the production of a series of these posters to be issued at intervals of from two weeks to a month. They will be sent free on application from industrial establishments. Application for the original posters will insure that subsequent issues will be mailed without further application.

"Whaddayamean," Border Educa- tional Advantages for Soldiers

Rio Grande Turns out To Be Simply a Dirty Creek and International Bridge is Wooden.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 15.—In enunciating the beneficial results of the mobilization of national guardsmen upon the border someone has dwelt upon the educational advantages.

"Everyone of the hundred—odd thousand militiamen," they say "will go back to his home with a clearer knowledge of a new section of our country and an understanding of the Mexican situation."

So as soon as the tents are up and he can get "town leave" the newly arrived guardsmen hurries down to learn all he can about the Mexican and the "situation," see the famous International bridge and catch a glimpse of the turbulent country at the other end of it. It is a thrilling experience—if the "guardie" has imagination. The soldiers of the patrol furnish the educational features.

At first sight the bridge is a bit disappointing. It is a rickety wooden affair. And the "silly Rio Grande" mentioned frequently in the popular songs is a distinct shock. It is neither silvery nor grand. At this season of the year it is a mere thread of dirty water meandering over the sandy river bed. Usually a dozen naked Mexican child are attempting to get wet or drier.

"Huh," sneers da Pittsburgh guardsman, "it isn't as dirty as my river. With two blotters I could blot up the dingy river."

It is significant after the first sight of the stream, the newcomers insist upon calling it "their river."

After gazing silently at the clusters of drab adobe huts sprawling up the sides of the barren mountain back of the town the newcomer has a lot of questions to ask. This is where the education begins.

"Say pard, are there many bandits over there?"

The nonchalant militiaman on patrol regards the seeker-after-knowledge with scant interest. He is a veteran of the border service. These "rooks" annoy him. He has been on the border for three months.

"Ain't it kinda dangerous doin' guard duty right across from 'em," pursues the undaunted seeker-after-knowledge.

"Wal, Yes," yawns the veteran. "Yes, we do have a lotta trouble with them bandits. But one ges used to it in time."

The seeker-after-knowledge throws an apprehensive glance at the other side. It looks quiet enough. Scores of shapeless women are hovering over little fires cooking on the shady bank. Venders of vegetables and cigars are waiting their wares plaintively. Children in every degree of nakedness are playing in the sand and in the sun.

But at the other end of the bridge are several sinister dark-faced figures fondling Mausers. They are leaning against the railings, each with a two-bushel had pulled over their eyes. They are the Carranzistas customs guard, when it is time for them to get off duty someone will awaken them. "Do them fellows ever get to snipin'?" "Oh, yes," the veteran casts a sharp look at the opposite bank. "We watch 'em pretty close. They's usually not much doin' until after dark." The newcomer is visibly impressed. He envies the hardened veteran his careless demeanor or in the face of danger. "What are them red horse blankets they wear around their shoulders?" The "rooks" thirst for information is insatiable. "Them. Oh, they call 'em tortillas. Of course the rook doesn't know now that a tortilla is a pancake. But he'll learn border ways fast enough. Within a month he will be touring some other "rook" and satisfying his thirst for knowledge. It's a great life, this border service, any way you take it—and there are the educational advantages.

COUNT APPONYI THINKS WILSON WILLENDWAR

Says Peace That Ends This War
Must Be a Peace That Will
Guarantee World Peace

BELLIGERENTS WANT PEACE

Berlin, Nov. 15.—(By United Press)—"Peace that closes this war must be a peace which guarantees future world peace—if such peace can be secured and I don't see why not. Then I think this horrible blood shed will not have been in vain for future generations," Count Apponyi, prominent Hungarian leader said in an interview today with a United Press correspondent. He declared "that there has been an unmistakable trend toward peace in Germany and England and expressed the belief that it must soon come. The two chief belligerents are getting on closer ground," he said, "as it is shown by comparison with early and late speeches one of von Bethmann-Hollweg and Earl Grey. President Wilson with campaign worries off of his mind and his election assured will seize the opportunity when the moment arises to help obtain peace in Europe," the Count continued.

"We know Wilson and hope his election is assured. America is psychologically the leader of the neutral nations and will be the big factor in time of peace." The count said that the peace "would not come in a week or even a month or two but would come soon. "This peace," he said, must be international and based on an agreement between nations."

Interesting Display At Kurtz's Store

Brass Standards of Weights and
Measures Used in 1801

Hundreds of shoppers are being attracted to the interesting display of weights and measures in the window of the Kurtz Stationery store. The measures are of solid brass and bear the date of 1801 and were made by order of the Governor of Pennsylvania in that year. They are now over one hundred years old and of course being made of brass are just as good as the day they were made. These standards were delivered to county commissioners in 1834 by direction of an act of assembly dated April 15, 1834. In order to test weights and measures it was necessary to make tests at the court house and the implements in this exhibit were used to make required corrections.

Under present laws the Inspector of Weights and Measures makes inspection by personal visit. Thomas J. Lowell, of Penfield, being the inspector. The exhibit was loaned by courtesy of the county commissioners.

BERLIN RECEIVES REPORT FROM SUB. CAPTAIN

British Steamer Rowanmore Believed to Have Been Sunk
After Refusing to Stop

ONLY CAPTAIN SAVED LIFE

Berlin, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—The admiralty today at the foreign office received the report of the German commander of the submarine which sank the British steamer Rowanmore on October 26, 145 miles off Cape Clear. The foreign office has issued an official explanation of the matter to Ambassador Drew of the American embassy at Berlin. Contrary to reports from America and England there is no excitement here. Many inquiries come from Americans regarding the torpedoing of merchant ships by submarines because every one here is convinced that U-boat commanders are not violating their instructions to sink merchantmen when caught. The Rowanmore according to belief was forced to stop after first refusing to heed the submarine's orders. It is understood here that the report of the submarine captain declares that the crew deserted the captain of the Rowanmore after the sinking because of his action and that he was finally forced to row alone to shore. That is the reason he was saved.

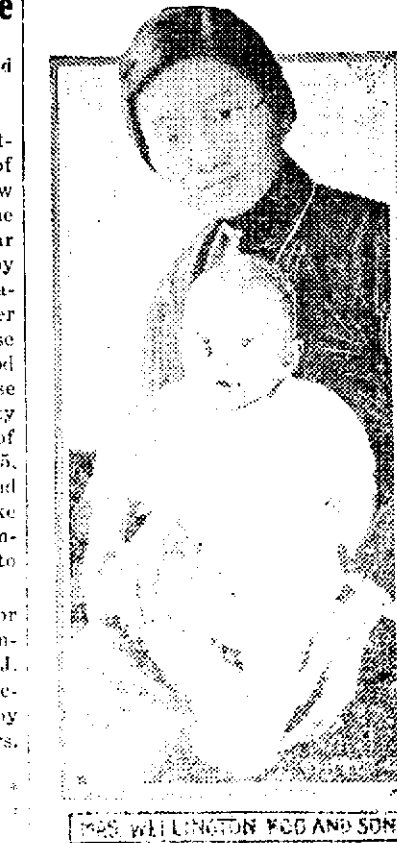

It is believed that the submarine fired on the crew after the men had taken to the smaller boats. Investigation of other submarine activities which has resulted in inquiries by the United States department of state has been continued but the reports of the submarine commanders concerned have not been forthcoming.

MARRIAGE OF MRS. HENRY M. FLAGLER

New York, Nov. 15.—The wedding of Mrs. Mary Lily Flagler, widow of Henry M. Flagler, one of the founders of the Standard Oil Company, and builder of the Florida East Coast railway, and former Judge Robert Wright Bingham, of Louisville, took place this afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones, close friends of the bride. Except for the limited number of people present, the surroundings of the wedding were on a splendid scale. The specious house was superbly decorated. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Morgan Ward, rector of Poinciana chapel, at Palm Beach, Fla., erected by Mr. Flagler.

The engagement and marriage of Mrs. Flagler and Judge Bingham resulted from the renewal of a friendship of more than twenty years' standing at a house party at Asheville, N. C., last year. They first became acquainted many years ago when they met at the commencement exercises of the University of Virginia. The bride of today is one of the wealthiest women in America. When Mr. Flagler died at Palm Beach, Fla., three years ago, he left an estate valued at $70,000,000, the bulk of which was inherited by his widow.

She is about fifty years old and was born and reared in the south. Her maiden name was Miss Mary Lily Kenan and her home was in Kenansville near Wilmington, N. C. Her father, William R. Kenan, was in the confederate service and an uncle was for eight years attorney general of North Carolina.

Judge Bingham, who has won the immensely wealthy widow as his bride is forty-five years old and also is a native of North Carolina. He received his early education at Asheville and later attended the University of North Carolina and the University of Virginia. For three years he was professor of Greek and Latin at Bingham school, Asheville, resigning in 1895 to take up the practice of law. He served as county attorney of Jefferson county, Kentucky from 1904 to 1907, when he became mayor of Louisville.

The Gary School system, play grounds and school gardens were the subjects presented at Woman's club yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank B. Reed read a most interesting article on the school system in Gary, Ind., where the school is made a genuine child's community, giving him in rotation, study, which can be applied in daily living, practical vocational training and recreation. The Gary school system, built up by an educator, William Wirt, has become an institution of national significance, and it is prophesied, may sometime revolutionize the schools all over the land.

Miss Clara Leavy told the club that we have playgrounds because it is beginning to be understood that play is not a luxury, but a necessity. Often the play instinct becomes twisted and perverted. Nine-tenths of the whole question of juvenile lawbreaking, is a question of play. Therefore a play leader becomes indispensable and has unlimited opportunities of forming habits in children, of honesty, fair play, generosity, determination and loyalty. Miss Leavy, then told of some methods used in organizing play grounds.

Plans for establishing children's gardens were brought before the club, and both of the above topics were discussed with much interest.

Mrs. H. Clark Thayer, president of the club, then gave her report as delegate to the state federation of Women's Club Women, at their annual meeting held in Philadelphia. She gave an inspiring account of the deliberations of over six hundred delegates sent out by the 53,000 club women of our state.

In response to a request for aid from the War Children's Relief Fund the "Little Stocking" with its pathetic appeal will be found hanging in the club room, ready for offerings, small or large. A special offering for this purpose will be asked for at the next club meeting.

Miss Dill, chairman of the fancy work exchange, then gave her report. The sales of fancy work total $665.00 for the year ending November 27th. A great deal of new work is coming into the exchange at the present time, and it is hoped that the holiday season will bring as large a variety of beautiful handiwork as last year.

Afternoon tea and sandwiches will be served by the exchange at the club rooms for the benefit of Christmas shoppers, commencing the middle of December.

After some discussion as to ways and means of increasing the number of books and general efficiency of the public library, the meeting adjourned.

PENNSYLVANIA FOR PROTECTION.

Amid the swing of states from their party moorings on Tuesday last Pennsylvania stood staunch and true to the colors of protection.

In Pennsylvania the issue had been squarely drawn between the Underwood free trade law and protection, in a real sense, to American industry.

The voters of the state showed that they had not forgotten the dark days of 1913 and 1914 when many men were out of work, wages were reduced and industrial establishments either closed their doors or limited production.

At the end of a long hard fight Pennsylvania, looking at the great majority it cast for Charles Evans Hughes, has a right to feel that it did its duty at a crucial moment in the country's history.

Pennsylvania did not, like other states, express smug satisfaction with present conditions, no matter how they were achieved. It looked deeper than that and sought the causes for ephemeral prosperity and tried to ascertain how long it would continue under the Underwood law in normal times.

Not only did Pennsylvania cast a remarkably large vote for Mr. Hughes but it gave big majorities for the state ticket, including the candidates for Congressmen-at-large.

In view of the result in the state the ridiculousness of the pre-election claim that Wilson would carry the state is clear to every one.—From Scranton Republican.

ONE GRAND RUSH.

The Christmas season is fast approaching and the thoughts of mothers, fathers, sons, daughters and beaux turn to the purchase of suitable gifts that will express the best wishes of their hearts and spread broadcast the charitable spirit of giving. A feature of gift buying that should not be overlooked by any at this time is the importance of buying American made goods. A more important point is the good policy of buying from your own stores. Values are just as good at home as abroad and it naturally follows that the goods in the Clearfield stores are just as good as those of the cities and especially those of the mail order houses where you buy without seeing the goods, depending entirely upon the reputation of the firm. It is a truth that very few of the mail order houses are reliable. Their business is built entirely upon their reliability for making good anything that is not satisfactory to the customer and that is damaged in transit. Dependability, Reliability and Honorable Dealing is the very foundation of their being yet in the holiday season they are generally unable to supply the needs of their customers without having a lot of goods going astray in transit which is one of the most provoking things that can happen to the purchaser at a time when it detracts from the gift when it is belated. The old rule advice to shop early is truer today than ever and he who does not shop early can be compared to the foolish virgin.

The merchant's part in the shop early program is very important. Stocks, full and complete should abound in the store at an early date. That date is already here. Our merchants are losing business every day from now on that they fail to put their Christmas goods on display. Mail order houses have already flooded the mails with catalogues of Christmas gifts and seeing nothing in their home stores to detract from the beautiful things they see in the catalogues, which are works of art and are designed to impress the early shopper, the gift buyer puts in his order to make sure that he gets his purchases in time for the holidays. "A Million New Savers In 1916"

The American Bankers' Association celebrates this year, the Centennial of the Savings Bank in the United States, by a nation-wide campaign to encourage Thrift.

The slogan of the campaign is "A Million New Savers in 1916." Will you be one of the Million? Will you make this year memorable for you as the year of your start toward financial independence? Will you make your surplus a part of the business capital of the community by putting it in the bank?

This bank offers you safety for your money, and 3 per cent. on savings.

are of dollars are being sent out of Clearfield every day already. Permit us to suggest that the merchants get busy at once on their Christmas wares and it is just as important that Clearfield is given with a few days and give home merchants a chance to show that they can produce the best there is in quality gifts.

AVOIDING THE SHADOW CALLED DEBT.

The best way to avoid debt is to pay as you go. Of all I know of, friends, this is most hard. We are often tempted to borrow just one thing from some friend or other, that we may avoid ourselves of some kind of a bargain or something of the kind. I have always made it a point not to borrow, and I have never been sorry although it often meant forgoing what seemed to me to be some good opportunity. But, do you know, once we have a thing or use it, as the case may be, it is very difficult to refrain from paying for it.

Particularly do young married couples think it expedient to borrow. So much is needed for their new home and they are starting out with little, and presently debts are incurred before they are aware they have been borrowed at all.

Besides debts with our friends, we may have debts at stores, and if our better debts we are apt to pay more than debts to persons whom we know and whom we have reason to believe will be indulgent to us.

Do you know, I think Shakespeare must have been a mighty wise man when he said "Never a borrower or a lender be." How well he knew human nature!

Buying things on the installment plan has been a convenience to hundreds of people. Yet it is not proper to purchase things in this way. I have in mind a young couple who started in their married life with barely enough furniture for their new home because neither could buy anything unless it could be paid for at once. They would have loved to furnish their little nest at the start, but they desired the best material, and by bit they went to saving, so they needed funds until at last their time was complete.

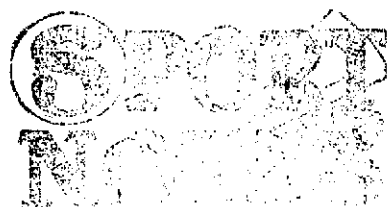

Debts are a constant worry to those who are unfortunate enough to feel their way to them. It is bad enough to be forced into them, without borrowing a dollar now and then when the financial supply has run low.

I earnestly believe debts the greatest rocks in the way of the happiness, and I intend to avoid them with every ounce of resolution which I possess. Will you join me?

"MADAME"

Special Feature at the Globe Theatre This Evening

It is just one year after her marriage to Floriot that Jacqueline feels the first pang of regret. They are really happy with their son Raymond but she wishes the attention, love and caresses which Floriot is unable to give her out of his time and attention he gives to his law book—for her sake.

Craving the love of her husband, is too busy to supply, she clandestinely meets Eugene, a former lover, and Floriot sees everything. Disregarding her pleas Floriot sends her away. A very short time later the gone meets with an accident and poor Jacqueline is left alone. She returns to Floriot's house to see little Raymond and meet Floriot driver her away. Unable to secure work, and desperate for the want of food, she accompanies Manuel, Garcia, a respectable Cuban, to Havana. Sweethearts are plentiful and Garcia, even tries of Jacqueline.

In the depths of degradation, she is about to end it all when she meets Laroque, a runner of Perissant, and Mervin, a shy lawyer in Bordeaux. With his she returns to France. In Bordeaux, in the Hotel of the Three Crowns, she tells him her past, offering to give her husband's name when the lawyers come to the fact to transact business with their employer, he tells them of Jacqueline of her former social position in Paris and most important of the story which her husband failed to relate to her. Laroque promises to go to search for her husband, and the thought that her son will know of her degradation, craves her and she kills him.

Raymond Floriot, her son, now an advocate, is appointed to defend Jacqueline, who, because of her refusal to disclose her identity, is brought to the police as Madame X. Before his father as Judge Raymond defends Madame X, his own mother. Thanks to the eloquent pleading of her son, Jacqueline is acquitted. Then, in a tragic scene old Floriot held out to her, a light of forgiveness in his eyes—but on her for heretofore. She no longer sees, nor hears, nor will she "share below".

WHEN WE WERE TWENTY ONE

At the Opera House Tomorrow Evening

William Elliott, a popular member of the more youthful element of prominent Broadway stars, who is at present achieving a tremendous personal triumph in the current dramatic sensation, "Experience," makes his first appearance in motion pictures in an absorbing and adaptation of H. V. Esmond's celebrated play, "When We Were Twenty One." Nat Goodwin's former starring vehicle. Mr. Elliott portrays the role of "The Imp" as young Richard Audline, the central character of the play, is known—that irresponsible and light-hearted young man whose tragic life history so nearly brings ruin to himself and to the woman who loves him as a son.

In "When We Were Twenty One" Mr. Elliott's winning personality and magnetism will have full scope, both in the earlier moments, when "The Imp" enjoys the freedom of college life and leads a life in the New York clubs, and in the later ones, when he meets the woman, "Firefly," a beautiful and beautiful actress, who, hearing from a practical joker that "The Imp" will come from a fortune of $100,000, marries him at the age of 18, and then, when he has become a famous actor, she is disappointed, finding that he is a poor man, and she leaves him for a rich man.

STATE AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Farmers throughout the State are reported to be stocking up with a good quality of cattle for feeding purposes.

The increased price for milk being obtained by producers is inducing them to improve their dairies and to buy high grade cows.

It is estimated that 15,340,000 hens on the farms of Pennsylvania annually produce about 100,000,000 dozen of eggs.

A record price of $1.00 a dozen, being paid by a New York buyer for a shipment of twelve dozen eggs from a young county.

Pennsylvania farmers are now leading tractors to their equipment and seem to be waiting for a practical night tractor.

Poultry flocks which in a year ago were reported for about an average of 100 per cent. are now only 50 per cent.

Delaware county was the home of a county with an average of 100 per cent. of its stock.

CURWENSVILLE NEWS

Milk men have sent out notices to their customers that the price of that product has been elevated from 5 to 9 cents per quart.

Mrs. Ed Kennedy and child, of DuBois, are visiting that lady's parents Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Shaffer, on East George street.

Phineas Bloom and John Haven of Grampian came down last evening to take part in the democratic parade. They brought a drum corps from that town with them.

If Curwensville has any intention of having a night school started in that direction, does any one know how many pupils would attend if there was one?

J. Roll Bloom came in from Bolivar yesterday where he had just completed the construction of a bridge. He will leave today for a point below Wilmington, Del., where he will be engaged in the same line of work.

Mrs. Josephine Brown had a warrant issued Monday evening for a man charging him with assault and battery committed on a son. The case was settled by the defendant paying the doctor bill and costs of prosecution.

The illustrated lecture in the M. E. church last evening was not as well attended as it should have been. The Democratic parade drew the attention of many who had contemplated attending. But the attendance was sufficiently large to encourage the lecturer, Richard Rothe, to deliver his discourse in a manner belling his subject, "Rock Gardening."

Some time ago the Pennsylvania railroad company brought several hundred colored men from Florida, and distributed them along their line between this place and Tyrone for truck work. The past week has depleted this number by more than half, the warm climate gentlemen saying they were freezing to death up here in the mountains, and slipping away two or three at a time, heading for the sunny south. Some of them had never seen a frost or a flake of snow.

That big Democratic ratification parade that has been the talk of the town for several days past, came off on schedule time last evening, and created fun and enjoyment, not only for those who took an active part, but for the lookers-on. The line started from the Park hotel corner having three brass bands and a drum corps to enliven the time and help the marchers keep step. There were described banners, mules, horses and "Buddy Spencer" wheeling John Kelly in a cart to pay an election bet. Charlie was game and the Demo's had nothing on him, as he performed the act with a dignity and decorum befitting a good Republican. The crowd was a good humored one and nothing was said or done that any one could take exceptions to as being of a too personal character. Clearfield was not as well represented as it might have been, but the Democrats of that town sent up a good band as a contribution and that helped a whole lot to liven things up. Along the parade route one could tell a Democratic house by looking at the number of candles and lights burning in the windows, although there were several Republicans who went down in defeat, but showed their patriotism by hanging out flags and burning lights in the windows. This demonstration, recalls to the mind of the writer, similar gatherings of a much rougher character of both political parties in years gone by, when the opposite party from the one which was jollying, threw bricks, stones and other missiles that came handy, in an effort to break up the parade. The demonstration usually terminating in a free-for-all fight, in which some of the participants carried remembrances for many a day. Last evening's demonstration portrayed the fact that those brutish times had passed into oblivion, and that the younger generation take as a joke what the fathers took as an insult; which leads up to the theory that in this late day politics is conducted along the lines of science instead of by brute force. If Mr. Wilson is truly elected President of these United States, all good citizens, whether Republicans or Democrats, will support his administration loyally and as becoming American citizens. Democrats of Curwensville, we congratulate you on your successful ratification jollification of last evening.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre To Hair.

That Beautiful, even shade of dark glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PLANTING BULBS OUTDOORS.

The first frost which will put an end to the development of many of the flowers in the home garden should be the signal, say specialists of the department, for the planting of bulbs of the tulip, hyacinth, and narcissus which are to furnish the first touch of color for the outdoor garden in the spring.

The bulbs may be put in even before the appearance of the first frost, but better not until after.

Tulips and hyacinths should be placed in beds in light, rich soil that has been dug to a depth of at least ten inches. They should be set 4 inches deep and 5 inches apart. If the narcissus and its variants—jonquils and daffodils—are to be planted in beds, the soil should be prepared similarly and the bulbs should be set 10 inches apart and 5 inches deep.

A pleasing variation from planting the narcissus type of early spring-blooming bulbs formally in beds is to plant them in scattered groups on the open lawn or in the edge of shrubbery. A good plan in arranging for the location of the flowers on the lawn is to broadcast the bulbs and plant them where they fall. A small hole 5 or 6 inches deep should be made and the bulb inserted, pointed end up. The hole should then be pressed full of soil. Often the narcissus, planted in this way, will become naturalized on the lawn and will continue to grow here indefinitely, coming up year after year, if the tops are left uncut until near the 1st of June.

HOMAGE TO BELGIAN KING

Paris, Nov. 15.—In Paris and throughout the greater part of France the people today enthusiastically celebrated the fete day of King Albert of the Belgians, whose name appears to be destined to go down to posterity as that one of the most heroic figures in the present war. Since the day he was driven from his throne by the invading Germans the exiled King has remained close to the battle front, sharing in all the hardships of the Belgian soldiers.

Today, in honor of the fete day of the King, all of the public edifices and many private buildings in Paris, displayed the Belgian colors. The telegraph wires to the war zone carried many congratulatory messages to King Albert, among the senders being President Poincare, King George, Czar Nicholas, the King of Italy and the exiled rulers of Serbia and Montenegro. The day was further observed by the Parisians with liberal contributions to the Belgian relief fund.

Miss Mary Agnew of Danville, N. Y. is visiting at the home of Miss Ella Shaw on Market street.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissue clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys to neutralize the acids in urine so it is not longer a source of irritation thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

ATTENTION OF WORKMEN

Harrisburg, Pa. Nov. 15.—An educational campaign to carry a message of safety and accident prevention directly to employees in Pennsylvania's industrial establishments has been instituted by Commissioner John Price Jackson, of the department of labor and industry, by the distribution of Accident Prevention Posters to be placed on bulletin boards and in other conspicuous places around industrial plants. The posters are 8 1-2 by 11 inches in dimensions and in attractive typographical display, each poster carries, to industrial workers, in few words, a vital thought for carefulness.

The first poster of the series gives a record of accident reports for the first six months of this year showing that 1,000 persons were killed, 125,000 persons injured and over $1,000,000 lost in wages by injuries. A display line sets forth that fifty per cent. of this enormous loss could have been prevented. In heavy black lines the work is admonished as a final thought: "Do your work in a safe way. Is it not worth while?"

The second poster gives a photograph of a worker who lost an arm while adjusting moving machinery. Beneath the photograph appears this warning: "Do not oil, repair or adjust moving machinery. Sooner or later you are bound to suffer from such carelessness. Why take chances when injury is sure to result?" At the extreme corners of each poster are replicas of a keystone containing a white cross within a black disk with the words "Safety Always" appearing at the border of the black circle.

Commissioner Jackson has arranged for the production of a series of these posters to be issued at intervals of from two weeks to a month. They will be sent free on application from industrial establishments. Application for the original posters will insure that subsequent issues will be mailed without further application.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights. Cleanse the blood, the bowels and the liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.
